Great Job Player! You have completed my game!

The city's neon lights flicker in the distance as you vanish into the shadows, your footsteps barely a whisper in the night. The vault is now just a silhouette of its former legend, You have rewritten its history. With the data chip securely uploaded and the robotic technology fully integrated into your own design, you've pulled off the heist of the millenium. Tokyo will never know the truth, and your name will fade into the digital void. But for you, this is only the beginning. The world is full of new targets, new opportunities, and new vaults waiting to be cracked.

YOU HAVE DIED!

The world spins out of focus as the harsh sound of guards rushing to find you dead. You were so so close to rewriting history. But now, as the lights flicker and die around you, the hum of the vault's security systems is the last thing you hear. The metallic taste of blood fills your mouth, and your vision fades as the cold grip of death tightens around your chest. Tokyo, a city that will never know the truth from within the thick vault walls, Legends of the Neon Vault will remain just a myth echoeing through alleys and markets and , and your name will be erased from its history forever. Your family will hold your goodbye letter in their hands, but they'll never know the reason for your absence. No one will ever know what you did.

YOU HAVE BEEN ARRESTED!

The neon-lit streets of Tokyo buzz with the hum of the city, but to you, it feels like a tomb. You never thought they would catch you—not this time, not with everything you've done. But as the SpecOps drag you through the crowd, their cold, unfeeling hands gripping your arms, you realize your time has run out. The weight of your failure presses down on you like the weight of the city itself. Your family will receive your goodbye letter, and they'll mourn, but your legacy will be confined to an empty cell, a footnote in a story you'll never get to finish. You tried to change the world, but in the end, the system had the last word. The world will never know what you did, only what you've become—another prisoner of the shadows.
